GARDENS

When looking at a garden
Gorgeous in itself—a rare
Thing of beauty, of color
And fragrance on the air,
Pause a moment—think a while,
For here lives have been made
And doubtless many destinies shaped
In this loveliness and shade.

—ALMA MURCHISON, '33.

Foreword

She who has a friend must be a lover of birds and flowers, of trees so tall, of ravines so restful, of gardens fragrant, and of rolling hills of grace.—Thus have we, the Staff, pictured them for you that they may remind you of friendships rare and as sweet as rosemary and lavender.

The Song of the Gypsy

Give me the night,
 The dark lonely night
 With the wild wind blowing my hair;
 And a silvery road,
 A winding trail
 That leads to the end of nowhere;
 Give me my dress,
 My old ragged dress
 Of orange and blue slazey silk,
 With the scent of smoke
 Of fragrant pine smoke
 Lingering in every fold;

Give me my song,
 My lazy gypsy song
 That tells of love and the road,
 The song I love
 The song that's in my soul,
 The song of joyousness,
 Ah! I'm weary of life,
 The staid city life
 With all of its gloom and sorrow,
 And I long for the road
 The fragrant open road
 That leads to a new tomorrow

"The old order changeth, yielding place to the new." The graduating class of August, 1930, in membership the largest of all Summer Senior Classes, in personnel reflecting credit upon our College in scholarship and achievement, with bonds of friendship, sentiments of love and devotion to Alma Mater, has become a definite organized class with visions and ideals for a fine future. This Senior Class wishes to make possible a lasting invisible circle from which will radiate influences that are ennobling and refining because of its devotion to that finest sentiment and spirit expressed in "Speak a good word for the College."

Gardens — young tender leaves,
Dripping with dews of early June.
Hearts — young and light,

Recollections

There
In the fragrance of the night,
Remembrance brings me light ;
And
I watch the trailing vines,
Hear the wind whistling in the pines ;
But
Though I find sweet repose
Where the deep brook flows
Sighing,
To my eyes there's sorrow—
Ashes—fragrant—for the morrow.

Contentment

I think that I could stand
Forever,—at my window
With the fragrant rain-wet air
Blowing through my hair,
Caressing me—with the selfsame fingers
That touched woodland spaces,
And the stars.

I could stand forever,
With my rose blouse
Blowing about me,
Making me feel a part
Of the Wind's Domain.

I could stand, always
As I do now—
Watching the gardner plant
Rosebushes in the grainy earth.

The rosebushes—
Tho' they seem now
So barren, unpromising,
Will soon proffer
Myriad roses—
Living, fair,
And perhaps some day
I too, will have something,
Something lovely, worth to proffer.

Seacobeck Hall

Seacobeck Hall, of colonial architecture with its stately columns of white pillars, offers an elegant atmosphere wherein students may dine. It is a beautiful building, the last word in modernity, yet located on the very site where Captain John Smith in 1608 found the Seacobeck tribe of Indians, and even now, after the passing of the centuries, when one is strolling in an idle hour round about the hall he may find gleaming arrow-heads of sharp, finely pointed grace, quiet reminders of a people, primitive, who have passed from the picture, but in the passing have left a heritage of the same lovely slopes whereon the Red Man set up his own little tepee in a day long, long ago.

Your Song

"Down the road of lonely roses"
You came with your song,
And sang your way into my life—
My heart where they belong;
When the roses were just budding
And the sunlight fell o'er the place,
You came softly, tenderly singing
With the glory of dawn in your face.
Down through the dew-kissed garden
Where a world of roses grew
You came singing your song
And the theme of them I knew.
Again "down the road of lonely roses"
You come singing along,
And my heart like the roses
Has burst into song.

What Life Holds for You

Is life for you a blissful dreamland,
In which your every wish comes true?
Is life a starry moonlit romance?
Does life hold more than that for you?

Is life for you a flowered pathway,
Above which is a sky of blue?
Is life a store of golden riches?
Does life hold more than that for you?

Life for you holds dismal failures,
Shadowed with successes new;
Joys o'er shadowing endless sorrow—
That is what life holds for you.

Life is only what you make it.
Start your life once more, anew!
Meet life squarely—meet life bravely;
Show just what life holds for you!

Live your life in serving others!
Do not make so much ado
Over self-consideration—
Show just what life holds for you!

Life for you is just a ladder.
Climb it! Show that you are true
To the noblest things within you.
Show just what life holds for you.

We love you, old Virginia, your rocks and rippling rills
Where here and there are scattered our quaint old Southern Mills.
We love your trees, your mountain breeze, your gurgling waterfall
Which echoes as it tumbles down, "Nature's beauty is for all."

BEING A SENIOR

When first I walked each spacious hall
And gazed about, I seemed
In this small world an atom small—
I wondered and I dreamed.
I dreamed of that great day to be,
When my goal I had reached;
I'd be a senior, blithely free
Of rules the seniors preached.
Oh, I'd do this, and I'd do that—
A Freshman's dreams you see!
I'd inspire awe in every rat
Yet from their toils be free,
But now that I have reached my goal
Tho' strange it seems to say—
I wish my name were in the roll
Of Freshmen, right today.

JEANNETTE B. LUTHER, '31

TRISTESSE

Blue Shadows—Why do they follow me?
Dark Shadows—All day they haunt me.
Queer Dreams—At night my heart do break—
Moanful Thoughts—My life they strive to take and break.

E. POWELL, '31.

A POEM

You know
I've been thinking
About girls—

There's the girl around school
Who's always wanting
To borrow your money—
(You can break her
Of this
By always being broke Yourself—).

And there's the girl
Who doesn't like any of her own clothes
And wants to wear yours
All the time—
(This type can be dealt with
Quite easily
All you have to do
Is to reduce
By not going to dinner
For a few weeks
And pretty soon
You'll have to make your clothes
Smaller
And then they won't
Fit her!
Thus you kill two birds
With one stone.)

Then there's the girl
 Who dashes up to you breathlessly
 And pleads,
 "This theme has to be
 Handed in next hour
 And I just can't seem
 To get beyond
 The first sentence.
 PLEASE help me!"
 (At first glance
 This type appears to be
 Incurable—
 But all you have to do
 Is just to flunk English
 A couple of times
 And you'll not be bothered
 In this respect
 Any more.)

The ardent collegian
 Who rolls Coca-cola bottles
 Up and down the hall
 After light bell—
 (Well—if you aren't able
 To step on her—
 Somebody else will be!)

Yes,
 All these types
 Can be handled
 By the use of tact,
 Or bribery,
 Or even force—
 (If you're a physical ed major—).
 But what—
 I ask you—what—
 Can you do
 That's legitimate—
 When it's after light bell
 And all is quiet—
 (This is not in Betty Lewis)
 And your roommate
 Snores?

OUR OWN GRAVEYARD

Here lies the body of Carrie Cline.
 She walked in over my busy sign.

Here lie the remains of Sadie Slatt,
 Who said, "Can I depend on that?"

Here lie the bones of Mary Mipp—
 I fell down, and she said, "Enjoy your trip."

She rests in peace, Minnie Mutt—
 She said to me, Did you say WHAT?"

HEIGHTS OF OPTIMISM:

VIRGINIA HALL GIRL: I think I'll keep my light on after light bell tonight and study.

BETTY LEWIS GIRL: I'm going down the hill and take a hot bath.

FRANCES WILLARD GIRL: I can't wait to see what we're going to have for dinner tonight!

ALICE: Helen, why is Louie's picture turned to the wall?

HELEN: Oh, you can turn it around now. I've finished dressing.

ADDIE CAMPBELL: What makes you so good natured?

HAZEL ALLEN: It takes me so long to get mad clean through.

DR. COOK: Lucy, how is macaroni made?

LUCY MISTER: Take a big long hole and wrap it in dough.

HUNTER: What are you looking for?

LULA LEE: A nickle.

HUNTER: When did you lose it?

LULA LEE: Who said anything about losing one?

MAUD ANDREWS: It's past ten o'clock. Do you think you can stay here all night?

PHIL LEARY: I'll have to phone mother first.

MARY KILMON: My brother doesn't drink, smoke or swear.

PEGGY POWELL: Does he make all his own dresses?

HE: Will you marry me?

SHE: But I'm a married woman.

HE: No, you're a widow. Now don't say I didn't try to break it gently.

"Everyone is crazy over me," said the inmate of the first floor of the insane asylum.

SARA JORDAN: Doctor, will my appendicitis scar show?

DOCTOR: Not if you're careful.

MOSE: When mah wife gets kissed she sho' do squall.

GAWGE: Ah'll say she do!

MOSE: What's dat, nigger?

HOLMES: I love you.

AUDREY: You don't mean it.

HOLMES: You must be a mind reader.

WOODY: Who is that man over there snapping his fingers?

ELSIE: That's a deaf mute with the hiccoughs.

DR. SHANKLE once gave out the following hint to his English Suracy students: If you can't get your lesson in one hour, take two. If you can't get it in two, take three. If three is not sufficient, take cyanide.

JOAN BRICKHOUSE: Will you please cash this check for me?

CLERK IN STORE: No, ma'am! No checks cashed here! I wouldn't cash a check for my own brother.

JOAN: Well, of course you know your own family better than I do.

SARA HARRIS: What is it that lives in a stall, eats oats and can see equally well at both ends?

HELEN RICE: I'll bite—what?

SARA HARRIS: A blind horse

VIRGINIA CARMICHAEL: What's the matter, Tilley?

TILLEY: Jack and I have parted forever.

VIRGINIA: Hm! In that case I suppose you won't get a letter from him for a couple of days.

DOTTY PARKER: Daddy, give me a dime?

MR. PARKER: Don't you think you're a pretty big girl to ask for a dime?

DOTTY: Maybe so. Give me a dollar, then.

BRUM: I'd like to offer you a cigarette, but—

KAYE: Don't bother. I never smoke cigarette butts.

SHE: When did you first know you loved me?

HE: When I began to get sensitive when people said you were brainless and homely.

NURSE: Mr. Jones, you are the father of quadruplets.

MR. JONES: What, one of those things that run around on four legs?

FRANCES ELLEN: Have you read "To a Field Mouse?"

HENRIETTA: No. How do you get them to listen?

SLINEY: Why does my girl close her eyes when I kiss her?

LEONARD: Look in the mirror.

WALTER: Who was that girl I saw you with last night?

FELIX: It's a lie!

AMELIA CARY: I just got a pink slip from the Dean.

LUCY ASKEW: Oh, you look nice in pink.

SALLY: Did you hear about the bearded lady in the circus?

LUCY: No—what about her?

SALLY: Well, she died today, leaving a wife and four children.

MR. DARTER: How many people are there in this country?

SAMMIE: Er—er—

MR. DARTER: Hurry, Hurry! Every second you dilly-dally the number grows larger.

No, Rene, a coquette is not a small coca-cola, and mice don't grow up to rats!

DR. ALTSTETTER: Your wife drives like lightning, doesn't she?

DR. DODD: Yes, always striking trees.

MR. DARTER: And do you know what Neoplatonism is?

KAYE: Sure. Red, white, and brown ice cream.

EDITH: I feel like a three-year old today.

MARY KILMON: Horse or egg?

LULA LEE: What's he like?

MERR: Oh, he's the sort of person who'd walk into the house of a dead person eating an apple, spit out the seeds, and say, "Howdy, folks, where's the body?"

She was only an acrobat's daughter, but she certainly was flippant!

EXECUTIONER: What flavor juice, please?

Lucy Will thinks a trial balance is the first attempt of a performer to walk the tight-rope.

If all the saxophone players in the world were laid end to end, they would still insist on playing the "St. Louis Blues."

Lucia Montgomery says that the reason college professors and other unskilled laborers don't get together and form a union is that no two of them can agree on any one subject!

"Get hot, sweet thing," said the coffee as the sugar tumbled in.

"That's me all over," said the suicide, as he hit the street after jumping out of a fiftieth story window.

Delma Owen has been engaged so many times that her ex-fiancees have formed an organization and adopted a yell.

DOT MORGAN: I want something to wear around the dormitory.

SALES GIRL: How large is your dormitory?

DIXIE: Jeannette, you sang that song in a bounting manner.

JEANNETTE: Do you think so?

DIXIE: Yes, there was just the ghost of a resemblance to the original air.

AUDREY: Do you use tooth paste?

SKINNEY: No, none of my teeth are loose.

ELEANOR WEBB: Why didn't you stay for the whole show?

STUART BRYANT: Well, the program said, Act Three same as Act One.

MISS BARNETT: Miss Nelson, how would you punctuate this sentence: "The wind blew a ten-dollar bill around the corner."

MIRIAM: I'd make a dash after the ten-dollar bill.

WOODY: Did you get all those questions on the test this morning?

ELISE: Yes, it's the answer I missed.

HE: Do you dance?

SHE: Yes, I love to.

HE: Well, we'll sit it out, then.

LUCY: You remind me of my mother.

TOM: No!

LUCY: Yes, she told me not to be seen with you.

SURGEON: Go and get the name of the accident victim, so that we can inform his mother.

ATTENDANT (later): He says his mother knows his name.

MARY WINGFIELD (on a street car): Which end do I get off?

CONDUCTOR: Makes no difference to me, ma-am both ends stop.

HUNTER: How did you find the weather at home this week-end?

DIXIE: Oh, I just stepped out of the door and there it was.

LOVEBIRD: Billy sent me a whole box of pretzels and I don't even know how to play the game!

Prissy Belote asked Peggy Powell to wake her up at eight o'clock Sunday morning.

Peggy knocked on Prissy's door Sunday morning and said, "Eight o'clock, Prissy."

Prissy turned over sleepily and replied, "Did you? Better see a doctor about it."

Dr. Dodd says there are three classes of women—the beautiful, the intellectual, and the majority.

DR. SHANKLE: The other day I went fishing and caught one of those great fish—let's see, what is it you call them?

DR. BAKER: Oh, do you mean a whale?

DR. SHANKLE: No, that couldn't have been it; I was using whales for bait.

FLORENCE STOKES: What's your roommate like?

SARA HARRIS: Everything I've got.

"It's a good thing hens don't know how much men get for laying bricks!" says Mary Dove.

ELOQUENT YOUNG MAN: Darling, let me look at your pearly teeth, incased in those beautiful rosebud lips of velvet.

KID BROTHER'S VOICE (from under the sofa): Take 'em out, Sis, so's he can get a good look at 'em.

STEW: What is this thing?

CARR: Only a pawn ticket.

STEW: Why don't you get two so we can both go?

ANNA: What's an oyster?

MITTIE: A fish built like a nut.

MOSE: Ah wins.
GAWGE: What yo got?
MOSE: Three aces.
GAWGE: Boy, you done lost.
MOSE: What you got?
GAWGE: Two nines and a razor.
MOSE: You sho' wins. How come you is so lucky?

"Appendicitis wouldn't be so bad," remarked Sara Jordan, "if it wasn't such a one-sided affair."

Mary D. Chambers says her idea of a hypocrite is a girl who gets up to study at five o'clock in the morning singing, "All the World Is Jealous of Me."

MURK: I've had a hard life. At eight I was left an orphan.
HUNTER: What did you do with it?

Dr. Boilin says that to be healthy you should swim regularly and drink plenty of water. (These should be done separately, however.)

MARY KATHERINE: You say your ancestors were killed in the Wars of the Roses?
EDITH: Oh, yes. For several generations our family was extinct.

BILLY: Why didn't you answer my letter?
ETHEL: I didn't get it.
BILLY: You didn't get it?
ETHEL: No, and besides, you said something in it I didn't like.

MRS. DODD: Didn't I hear the clock strike two as you came in last night?
DR. DODD: You may have. It started to strike eleven, but I stopped it so it wouldn't awake you, dear.

SAMMIE: I'm a different girl since I met that boy.
DOT: How's that?
SAMMIE: I gave him the wrong name and address.

BETSY: What is dust?
ROSE: Mud with the juice squeezed out of it.

Miss McKenzie wants to know how you can cut through traffic—when it is like this?

ROSE: You want to keep your eyes open around here today.
MARGIE: Why?
ROSE: Because people would think you were crazy if you went around with them shut!

STURDY: I just adore dark men.
SMITTY: You'd have a big time in Africa, wouldn't you?

MEG JORDAN: Have you ever run a temperature?
LOUISE FRAZIER: No, but I've run nearly every other kind of car.

"This tonic is no good," complained Elsie Powell. "All the directions it gives are for adults, and I've never had that."

RUTH WEINBURG: There's a fly in this soup.
MIRIAM NELSON: That's not a fly. It's one of those vitamin bees.

Pete Carmine thinks CH_2O is sea water!

LUCIA: What did you make on that test?
MARGIE: Zero, but that's nothing to me.
